

Intern WALL OF FAME

Brian Carroll (History, Junior)
Museum Studies Intern
Barker History Museum

The internship that I chose to do was at the Barker History Museum, located in Fredonia. I learned a lot about cataloging items and genealogical research. I was given the opportunity to perform genealogical research on local Fredonia residents and set exhibits in the museum. I learned new skills from this internship, such as how to use past perfect and a micro film machine. With these skills that I have acquired from being a part of this internship, I have an opportunity of working in a larger museum anywhere around the world. I enjoyed my internship experience and would recommend this internship to other students in the History or Museum Studies field.

I would advise other students to use the Career Development Office to find the internship that interests them. There are many internship opportunities out there, so anyone may be selective when choosing an internship that fits them. The Career Development Office holds an endless amount of choices for any student in any field so each student will find an internship they desire.
